Many Petersburg Merchants and Families Make Donations for Relief of Belgians.

THIS WORK HAS JUST BEGUN

Counties of Southside Expected to Make Liberal Response—Parent-Teacher Association Organized at Stonewall Jackson Public School.

PETERSBURG, VA., November 17.—Many contributions of money, clothing, hats, shoes, meat, groceries and the like were sent yesterday and to-day to the headquarters of the Belgian Relief Committee, to help make up the State's cargo for the Belgium sufferers. But the work has only just begun. It is believed that every merchant in Petersburg, and every family able to do so, will make a donation to the relief cause, and that in the aggregate the contribution will be a large one. It is believed, furthermore, that the counties of the Southside, in all of which relief committees have been or are being organized, will make liberal response to the call upon them.

Parent-Teachers Association.
The teachers and parents of pupils at Stonewall Jackson Public School met yesterday afternoon and formed a Parent-Teachers Association, electing the following officers: President, Mrs. H. Beasley; vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Jett; secretary, Mrs. P. H. Cole; treasurer, Mrs. A. W. Baxton. The object of the association is to study the welfare of the child in home, school and community.

Heavy Theft of Liquor.
The rectifying house of the Poca-hontas Distilling Company, Inc., in Poca-hontas, was robbed last night of a large quantity of liquor, to the whereabouts of which or the identity of the thieves no clue has been thus far obtained. It is said that a door was forced and thirty-seven quarts of apple brandy, worth $6 a gallon, was stolen. The distillery was once before robbed of a quantity of liquor.

Anasized His Wife.
William Powers, colored, is under arrest and in jail on the charge of assaulting his wife, Sarah Powers, with a brick. The woman was injured when she was before a warrant was returned and had to be sent home in a buggy. When the case was called in the Police Court this morning, she again fainted, and a continuance was necessary.

Woman Cuts Another.
If the Police Court this morning a sentence of ninety days' imprisonment was passed upon Janie Brown, colored, for attacking Mary Ruffin last night on Low Street and cutting her in the shoulder and arm. Only fresh wounds were inflicted, however, and as usual the accused appealed from the decision to the Hustings Court.

A Quiet Wedding.
Owing to recent bereavement in the family, only relatives and a few friends were present at the home of Mrs. A. G. McManaway, on Pine Street, this morning, to witness the quiet wedding of her daughter Josephine to the Rev. D. P. Gaines. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. M. Picher, assisted by the Rev. L. M. Roper. The wedding journey will be a tour of the Northern States, and Mr. and Mrs. Gaines will make their home in Durango, Col.

War Is Dominant Theme.

The police are in search of a youth out of prison on parole, who recently gained access to a number of rooms at City Point and stole jewelry and other articles of value.

Miss Mary T. Patterson, of this city, has received the Belgian Relief Committee in New York, expressing praise and thanks for the good work done here and elsewhere. She is in the city in behalf of the Belgian relief fund, and saying that every dollar received is turning into food and clothing, and is being shipped and shipped as rapidly as possible.

The Trey O'Hearts

Romantic Tale by Louis Joseph Vance.
Copyright, 1914, by Louis Joseph Vance.

SYNOPSIS.
By arrangement with the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, it is possible to read "The Trey O'Hearts" in the Times-Dispatch as well as to see it in pictures at the Superior Theaters. Synopsis of preceding chapters: The Trey of Hearts is the death of a woman, which through the agency of his daughter Judith, a woman of violent passions, which through the agency of Alan, son of the man (now dead) who was innocently responsible for the accident which left Trine a helpless cripple for life. Alan loves and is loved by Judith, the twin and double of her mother's fate. Judith vows to compass Alan's death, but Alan saves her life under dramatic circumstances, and so unwillingly wins her love. Thereafter Judith is accused in turn by the old hatred, the new love, and the jealousy of her sister Rose, who becomes alienated from her father through the influence of the aid she has extended Alan in his flight with Rose from the vengeance of Trine through the mountains of Western Arizona. Alan, Rose, Barcus and Judith are pursued relentlessly by Trine's agents.

CHAPTER VII.—SACRIFICE.
He had worked his cautious way, with the girl in tow, to a point about midway up the face of the cliff, following a long diagonal that provided the easiest climbing, when Alan stole back to Judith and reported that, on the evidence of observation, the fugitive was convinced that the pursuit had turned back—perhaps for want of ammunition, perhaps to execute some less hazardous attempt upon the lives of the fugitives.

Without delay, then, he made the free end of the rope fast round his own waist, and following the way Barcus had chosen, began the ascent.
It was hot work, exposed to the merciless sun, like a wingless fly on a blank wall, and arduous and dangerous to boot. Though he tested every foot and hand hold in advance and progressed with tedious deliberation, he was soon high enough to appreciate how fatal any slip might prove—to feel the emptiness at his feet as he tugging like some strong yet unseen hand.

Two-thirds of the climb had been accomplished, and Rose and Barcus had arrived in safety at the top, before the temptation to look down proved irresistible.
Immediately beneath his heels the face of the cliff was deeply hollowed out, leaving a drop of fifty feet to a shelving ledge of shale as steep as a roof, whose eaves—perhaps another fifty feet below—jutted out over an area full of a hundred feet.

Alan shuddered and swallowed hard before resuming the climb.
Another twenty feet, however, brought him to a ledge quite six feet wide, offering a broad and easy path to the summit. He gained this with a waver of heartfelt relief and was on the point of rising to his feet when a cry of horror from Barcus and a scream of terror from Rose, watching over the upper edge, warned him barely in time to enable him to snatch at and grasp a knob of rock before Judith's weight suddenly tautened the rope between them and jerked Alan's legs from under him.

His feet and legs kicking the empty air beyond the lip of the ledge, he lay face downward, clutching desperately the knob of rock, praying that it might not come away in his grasp, that his grasp might hold, that Barcus might arrive in time to save them both. The rope was cutting into his waist like a dull knife. The drag of Judith's body was frightful. He could feel her swinging like a pendulum at the end of its thirty feet, and could imagine but too vividly what would happen if the rope should prove faulty.

CROSS-BUN WINS FEATURE RACE AT HAVRE DE GRACE

Favorite, Thorahill, Kept Behind the Pace and Never Let Down until Borgos Captures Opener.
HAVRE DE GRACE, November 17.—The Port Deposit selling stakes, this afternoon's feature, was taken handily by Cross Bun, defeating the odds on favorite, Thorahill. Prairie and Undaunted made the pace to the stretch, where Cross Bun came through and won.

The favorite was kept behind the pace, and was never let down until it was too late. The race did not look well, and the public did not relish seeing a horse that had been running miles in 1:25 and beating stake horses down by cheap ones.

The betting before the race indicated that it was a bad day for Thorahill. Borgos captured the opening event, beating "the pacer" Hammer. Joe Diebold came from behind in the second race and won going away.

THREE SISTERS WED WITH ONE CEREMONY
Great Crowd Through Church and Green in Front to Witness Triple Marriage.
BRISTOL, VA., November 17.—In the Methodist Church at Bluff City, Tenn., a picturesque river town near Bristol, Cupid this afternoon wrote the following record of victories in the presence of a throng of guests that filled the little edifice to overflowing and packed the green in front:
Denny Denny to Charles Worley.
Mable Denny to Wiley Hammer.
Mary Denny to R. S. Patton.
This record explains how three pretty young sisters, daughters of J. W. Denny, of Bluff City, became brides, all at one time, to three young men, all at one time, in a single ceremony was said by the Rev. Walter Worley, a Methodist minister of Haywood, Tenn., and a brother of one of the grooms.

MISS ADDAMS TO SERVE IN HONORARY CAPACITY ONLY

Accepts Election to Position in Suffrage Organization With This Understanding.

NASHVILLE, TENN., November 17.—With the approval of chairman, important standing committee, adoption of resolutions concerning the European war, and the outlining of plans for the ensuing year, the business left over from the Home American Woman Suffrage Association's annual convention was completed here to-day at meetings of the executive council and the board of directors.

One of the interesting incidents of the meeting of the executive council was the reading of Mrs. Desha Breckinridge of Kentucky, first vice-president of the suffrage association, of a letter from Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago, relative to the proposed election by the council of Miss Addams as honorary first vice-president.

According to reports of the incident, Miss Addams in her letter objected to the use which had been made of a statement purporting to have been made by her, and which strongly supported the administration element in the convention.

Miss Addams, it was reported, declared in her letter that she would not accept the honorary position unless it were made entirely clear that she was to serve in an honorary capacity only, and that her name was not to be used as endorsing future actions of the official board in which she took no part, and on which she had no vote. The council elected Miss Addams, following extended discussion, with this explicit understanding.

The board of directors appointed Mrs. Medill McCord of Chicago, chairman of the committee on congressional work with Mrs. Antonette Funk, of Chicago, as vice-chairman. It was announced that Mrs. Funk will make a tour of the country, and take charge of the work before Congress.
